PREFACE.

In the preparation of this Catalogue great difficulty was met with in obtaining the requisite material, and such imperfections as occur are due to causes beyond the control of the compiler and not to want of effort on his part. Inability to find persons having the desired information in some cases, and unwillingness or neglect to reply to inquiries on the part of persons addressed in others, are the chief reasons for any failures that may exist.

The compiler takes this occasion to thank those persons who have asisted him in the work, and especially Dr. L. B. Todd, of Lexington, and Mrs. G. H. Rout, of Versailles, without whose assistance even the present attempt would have failed of realization.

Any information in regard to "missing links," or any correction of mistakes will be thankfully received and acknowledged if sent to the Librarian of the College.

DANVILLE, KY., June 1, 1890.

SKETCH OF THE COLLEGE.

Centre College was chartered by the Legislature of Kentucky in 1819. Rev. Jeremiah Chamberlain, D. D., first President, went into office in 1823. In 1824, the Board of Trustees, according to an arrangement with the Presbyterian Synod of Kentucky, procured an Act of the Legislature, modifying its charter, so as to secue to the Synod, on its payment of $20,000 to the funds of the Institution, the right of appointing the Board of Trustees. This condition having been completely fulfilled on the part of the Synod in 1830, since that period all the members of the Board have been appointed by that Synod, as their terms of office, from time to time, have expired. One-third of the Board are appointed each year.

Dr. Chamberlain resigned his office in 1826, and the Rev. Gideon Blackburn, D. D., succeeded him in 1828, the office having, in the meantime, been temporarily filled by the Rev. David C. Proctor. On the resignation of Dr. Blackburn in 1830, Rev. John C. Young, D. D., was elected. Dr. Young died in office June 23, 1857, and on the 6th of August following, Rev. L. W. Green, D. D., was elected his successor, and entered upon his duties January 1, 1858. Dr. Green died in office May 26, 1863, and on the 16th of October following, Rev. William L. Breckinridge, D. D., was elected President. He accepted the 29th of the same month, and immediately entered upon the duties of his office. These he continued to discharge until his resignation, which occurred October 16, 1868. Prof. O. Beatty, LL. D., at that time Vice-President, was requested to discharge the duties of President until a successor to Dr. Breckinridge should be appointed. He continued to act in this capacity until the Board of Trustees elected him President, September 1, 1870. But by the laws of the Institution a permanent instructor could not be appointed by less than a two-thirds vote of the entire Board; and less than this number were present at the meeting at which he was elected President. His election was unanimously confirmed on June 24, 1872. He had been discharging the duties of his office since the resignation of his predecessor. Dr. Beatty tendered his resignation of the office of President to the Board of Trustees at its annual meeting in Danville, June 15, 1886. But as the Board failed to secure a successor at this meeting, it requested Dr. B. to withdraw his resignation for the time. The tender was renewed to the Board, which met, at the call of the Chairman, in Lexington, November 30, 1886, and was accepted, "to take effect upon the qualification of his successor."

Unsuccessful efforts were made to secure a President, until Rev. W. C. Young, D. D., the son of the distinguished former President, Dr. John C. Young, was unanimously elected, June 19, 1888, and Dr. B. was formally released from his official duties. Dr. Young promptly accepted the office, and entered upon his duties at the opening of the next term, September 5, 1888.

Centre College is thus shown to be one of the oldest institutions of learning in Kentucky, or in the South or West, having sent out its first graduating class in 1824. It has been prosecuting its work successfully, and without interruption, from that day to this. Not a year has passed that it has not sent its graduates into the field. The last Triennial Catalogue shows the entire number of its Alumni to the present time to be nearly 1,000. Among these are more than 300 lawyers, nearly 200 ministers of the Gospel, and 80 physicians, and the remainder are found in various professions and callings. Among the Alumni are many, both of the living and the dead, who have greatly distinguished themselves in their respective professions, and have attained the highest positions of honor and trust, especially throughout the South and West, where they chiefly reside, or where they did reside while they lived.

Centre College has educated 19 College Presidents, 41 College Professors, 14 Representatives in Congress, 4 United States Senators, 5 Governors of States, 1 Vice-President of the United States, 1 Justice of the United States Supreme Court, 24 Circuit Judges, State and National, 37 Editors, etc. No institution in Kentucky sends out year by year a larger class of graduates.

IN MEMORIAM.

JEREMIAH CHAMBERLAIN, D. D.

Dr. Chamberlain was born in Adams county, Pa., January 5, 1794. He received a liberal education, graduating at Dickinson College, Pa., in 1814. After a three-year course at Princeton he was licensed to preach in 1817. He went South as a missionary this year, and the next accepted a call to the church at Bedford, Pa.

In 1822 he accepted the Presidency of this College, and come to Danville with an enthusiasm which soon put it on a firm basis. While here he preached regularly, and a powerful revival in religion took place.

In the winter of 1824–25 he resigned and went to Louisiana to become President of Jackson College. This office he gave up in 1828, and started a private school in the same place. In 1830 he was elected President of Oakland College, Mississippi, established through his influence.

The great work of his life may be said to have been the foundation of Oakland College, to which he devoted an untiring energy. On the fifth day of September, 1850, he died by the hand of an assassin.

Dr. Chamberlain was a man of marked ability; of strong intellectual power; of great public spirit. The main aim of his preaching was to present the great cardinal truth that "Christ is all in all."

As a presiding officer over the church courts and as the head of the college he showed fine executive capacity and excellent judgment in the many difficult cases that called for firmness and decision.

GIDEON BLACKBURN, D. D.

The birth of Dr. Blackburn occurred in Augusta county, Va., August 27, 1772. His literary tutor was Samuel Doak, D. D., while he received his theological training under Dr. Robert Henderson.

In 1792 he was licensed to preach by Abingdon Presbytery, and soon after established the church at Maysville, and also took charge of one at Eusebia. His labors were not confined to these congregations, but in the region about he succeeded in establishing several new churches. In 1803 he undertook a mission to the Cherokees with excellent results. In 1811 he settled in East Tennessee, and become Principal of Harpeth Academy, preaching at the same time, with his usual success in organizing several churches. In 1823 he moved to Louisville as pastor, and in 1827 became President of Centre College, holding the office until 1830. He then removed to Versailles, preaching to the church and acting as agent of the Kentucky State Temperance Society. In 1833 he went to Illinois, and in 1835 we find him in the East raising money for Illinois College, a work which finally resulted in establishing a theological school at Carlinsville. He died August 23, 1838.

"Dr. Blackburn was much above the ordinary stature. In his manner he was easy, gentle, mild, courteous, affable, but always dignified. Not only was he eloquent, but a laborious and successful preacher. He made many tours in the United States; his vacations were uniformly spent in traveling from place to place, often preaching night and day, and always followed by weeping, wondering, admiring audiences whenever he went; and even during the sessions of academy and college, often have I known him, mounted on horseback on Friday afternoon, to dash ten, twenty, and even thirty miles, preach four or five times, administer the communion on Sabbath, and return on Monday morning in time to be in his chair in the lecture-room at 9 o'clock."

John C. Young

JOHN C. YOUNG, D. D.

John Clarke Young, D. D., was born in Greencastle, Pa., August 12, 1803. He was the youngest son of Rev. John Young, pastor of the Associate Reformed Church of that place, and of Mary Clarke Young, both of Scotch-Irish descent. Dr. Young was for three years a student at Columbia College, New York, and in 1823 was graduated at Dickinson College, Pennsylvania. And having declined the most temping offers to enter the profession of law, under the auspices of his uncle, Matthew St. Clair Clarke, at that time Clerk of the House of Representatives at Washington, and an eminent lawyer and politician, he determined to study for the ministry. For two years he occupied the position of tutor in Princeton College, and in 1824 entered the Theological Seminary there, in which he remained four years. While at Princeton he was the intimate friend of Drs. Hodge, Dod, and the Alexanders, all of whom were young men together. In the spring of 1827 he was licensed to preach; after visiting several Eastern cities, where he was strongly urged to make his home, he journeyed across the mountains, to what was then considered the West, and came into Kentucky. In 1828 was elected and installed pastor of the McChord Presbyterian Church in Lexington. In the fall of 1830 the Presidency of Centre College became vacant by the resignation of Dr. Blackburn, and Dr. Young, then entering his twenty-eighth year, was unanimously elected to that office by the Board of Trustees. Although so young, and having been in the state but a short time, he had already attained to the first rank as an able and eloquent preacher, and a man of varied and elegant acquirements.

"If your inquiries," says Dr. Archibald Alexander, in answer to a query as to Dr. Young's qualifications for the place, "relate to the Presidency of a college, there is no man within my acquaintance better qualified for such a situation than John C. Young, who is already among you. It is a mistake to look out for old men if you can get young men who are qualified; the first must be going down, but the latter will be improving for a long time to come. You may depend upon it that Young is a first rate man, of extensive acquirements, and of a pleasant but decisive temper."

For nearly twenty-seven years, and until his death, he amply fulfilled the expectation and promise of his early youth. He entered Centre College when it was at a low ebb, and left it at his death one of the most prominent institutions of learning in the South-west. The Presbyterian Church in Danville becoming vacant in 1834, Dr. Young was elected to fill the pulpit. He entered upon this double duty as an experiment, and continued its performance with unparalleled ability, acceptance and success till his death, over twenty years after. In 1839 the degree of D. D was conferred on him by the College of New Jersey. In 1833 he was elected Moderator of the General Assembly in Philadelphia, and presided over that body with distinguished success. His ready and brilliant elocution was noticeable in the addresses which he made to the representatives of corresponding and foreign churches. His death, after a lingering illness, occurred June 23, 1857.

As a divine, Dr. Young was able and sound; as a metaphysician, remarkable for his discriminating powers; as a teacher, faithful and successful; as a friend, ardent and constant. His loss to the Church and the cause of learning was deeply deplored, and his memory is still fondly cherished by all who knew him.

LEWIS WARNER GREEN, D. D.

Dr. Green was the son of Willis and Sarah (Reed) Green, both of whom come from Virginia to Kentucky, and was born near Danville, January 28, 1806.

His preparatory studies were pursued under D. F. Robinson, Joshua Fry and W. R. Thompson. He entered Transylvania University 1820, but at the close of junior year, came to Centre College, which was just organized, and graduated in the first class. On leaving college he desired to enter the Gospel ministry, but by the solicitation of friends he took up the study of the law with his brother, Judge Green. This soon proved distasteful, and he turned his attention to medicine. This, too, was given up. It was not God's will that he should do other than His work.

In 1831 he entered the Seminary at Princeton, N. J., having been some time previously at Yale studying Hebrew. During this year he was elected Professor of Greek in Centre College, which he declined, but the Chair of Rhetoric and Political Economy being offered him the next year, he accepted.

Mr. Green was licensed to preach October 4, 1833, by the Presbytery of Transylvania, and the next summer sailed for Europe for the purpose of study. He remained abroad two years, attending lectures at various German universities.

In 1838 he was elected to the Professorship of Oriental and Biblical Literature in the new Seminary at Hanover, Ind. The next year he was recalled to Danville to take the Vice-Presidency of the College and to become co-pastor in the church. Having been offered the Chair of Oriental Literature and Biblical Criticism in the Western Theological Seminary, Alleghany, Pa., he accepted, and held the position for seven years.

In 1847 he took charge of the Second Presbyterian Church in Baltimore, and the ensuing year became President of Hampden Sidney College, Virginia. Here he remained until 1856, when he received the Presidency of the reorganized Transylvania University. Dr. Young dying in 1857, Dr. Green was chosen to take his place at the head of Centre College.

In 1827 Mr. Green married Miss Eliza J. Montgomery, of Lincoln county, who lived but a short time, and in 1834 he was united to Mrs. Mary Lawrence. He died May 6, 1863.

"Dr. Green was eminent as a scholar, and equally so as a teacher. His intellect was vigorous and brilliant. To the business of communicating knowledge to students, he brought a wonderful knowledge of the human mind, and a somewhat unusual power of stimulating the youthful mind to enlarged desires after truth. He was a most agreeable companion, the united charms of his manner and conversation being unsurpassed. As a preacher he stood in the foremost rank, possessing in almost unlimited profusion the inherent qualities that lie at the basis of successful public speaking."

WILLIAM LEWIS BRECKINRIDGE, D. D.

Dr. Breckinridge was born near Lexington, Ky., July 22, 1803. In 1831 he entered the ministry as pastor of the church at Maysville, Ky. A few years after he was called to the Second Presbyterian Church at Baltimore, and at the same time was offered the Professorship of Ancient Languages in Centre College, which he accepted. In 1836 he began the pastorate over the First Church of Louisville, where he remained for twenty-three years. From there he went to Mississippi as President of Oakland College, and in 1863 was called to the head of our college, which he served for five years. He died December 26, 1876, in Cass county, Mo.

Says Dr. E. P. Humphrey: "As a preacher he was instructive, lucid and thoroughly evangelical. He had a clear conception, an intelligent and experienced knowledge of the gospel, and expounded the saving truths always with great simplicity, and often with an earnestness, a pathos, a persuasive power, that brought his hearers into captivity to the obedience of Christ. And then a certain propulsive power was imparted to his discourse by his manliness, his moral and physical courage, his profound conviction of the truth and glory of the gospel, and by the unspotted purity of his life.

"Few men have been so diligent and useful in pastoral visitations. His fine social qualities, his ready, even spontaneous, sympathy, his sense of propriety and delicacy made him welcome always to the families of his congregation. The sick and the dying and the bereaved turned to him as at once a learner and a teacher in the school of Christ, the consoler. His labors as a pastor were the most prominent, and, as he thought, the most fruitful branch of his ministry.

"In the Presbyterian Church at large he was a wise and trusted counsellor. He loved the Church; he consecrated himself, body and spirit, down to the end of his days, to its welfare. His brethren throughout the land committed to him the most sacred trusts and bestowed upon him the highest honors of the profession."

ORMOND BEATTY, LL. D.

Dr. Ormond Beatty, the fourth son of Judge Adam and Sarah (Green) Beatty, was born in Mason county, Ky., August 13, 1815, and died June 24, 1890. He entered Centre College in 1832, and was graduated in 1835. Previous to his graduation he was elected to the Professorship of Natural and Physical Science in the College, but before entering upon its duties he spent a year at Yale College in special preparation for his work. In 1847 he received the degree of A. M. from Centre College, and in 1868 the College of New Jersey conferred on him the degree of LL. D. In 1847 he was transferred to the Professorship of Mathematics, but in 1852 was restored to his original chair. In 1870 he was elected President of the College and Professor of Metaphysics. Owing to advancing years and failing health he tendered his resignation in 1886, but was prevailed upon by the Board of Trustees to withdraw it till the election of his successor, which took place June 19, 1888, when Rev. W. C. Young, D. D., was chosen. The Board then elected him Professor of Metaphysics.

In 1886 Dr. Beatty completed the fiftieth year of his service as Professor and President To signalize this event the Alumni contributed $1,000 to found the Ormond Beatty Senior Prize.

In 1830 Dr. Beatty united with the Presbyterian Church, and in 1844 was elected an elder. He was a commissioner to the General Assembly in 1855, 1866 and 1867. He was a delegate to the First General Council of the Presbyterian Alliance in Edinburgh in 1877, and also to the second meeting of that body in Philadelphia in 1880.

Dr. Beatty was married three times: first to Miss Sallie Lewis Rochester, who left him one son, Charles R. Of his second marriage, to Miss Ann Bell, a daughter was born, now Mrs. Pattie Quisenberry. His last marriage was to Mrs. Elizabeth O. Boyle, whom he survived five years.

Dr. Beatty was a man of great natural ability and a scholar of profound and varied culture. A symmetrical, well-poised character, a mind singularly logical and practical, an equable temper, self-sacrificing devotion to duty, deep piety, unstinted beneficence, rare unselfishness, a diffidence and humility that prevented the full recognition of his transcendent merits by the world at large—all these were characteristics of this great and good man.

> "Of manners gentle, of affections mild,
> In wit a man, simplicity a child."

His judicial habit of thought, extensive knowledge, and unrivaled powers as a debater gave him great influence in educational and ecclesiastical counsels. As a teacher he was distinguished for lucid thought, felicitous language, apt illustration, and dialectic skill, and was greatly venerated and beloved by his pupils. To his colleagues of the Faculty he was the wise and revered counselor, the sympathetic and considerate friend. He was a living illustration of "whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honorable, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report."

NECROLOGY

CLASS 1824.

LEWIS WARNER GREEN.

See sketches of deceased Presidents, page 8.

JOHN POPE TROTTER.

All information in regard to Mr. Trotter was declined. He received the degree of A. M. from Centre College in 1825, and was at Princeton Theological Seminary during this year.

1825.

JAMES PENDLETON BRYANT.

The father of Mr. Bryant was named Robert, and was born in that part of Lincoln county which is now Boyle. His mother was a Miss Thomas.

James was born in Lincoln county in 1803 (?), and entered the Freshman Class, having received his preliminary training in the Preparatory of Centre College.

On leaving College he commenced farming, and shortly after married Miss Harriet Barbee. In 1840 he removed to Buchanan, Mo., where he died suddenly some years ago, leaving several children.

CHARLES PINCKNEY MCDOWELL.

Was the son of Joseph McDowell, a native of Virginia, and Sarah (Irvine) McDowell, of Boyle county, Ky.

His birth occurred in Boyle county, April 19, 1804, and all his studies were pursued in Danville. After graduating he entered the law office of Judge Boyle, was admitted to the bar, but never practiced, farming proving a more congenial occupation.

He died March 4, 1883, in Danville, having never married.

1826.

JOHN TODD STUART..

Son of Rev. Robert Stuart, D. D., a native of Rockbridge county, Va., and for many years pastor of the church of Walnut Hill, Fayette county, Ky.

His mother was Hannah Todd, daughter of Gen. Levi Todd, of Fayette county.

The subject of this notice was born November 10, 1807, at Walnut Hill. His preliminary education was received at Sulphur Spring Grammar School, near Walnut Hill, and at Salem Academy, Clark county, the latter taught by Rev. Samuel Marshall. He entered College in 1824, and on graduating pursued the study of law with Judge Daniel Breck, of Richmond, Ky. In 1828 he moved to Springfield, Ills., and commenced the practice of his profession. A short interruption occurred in 1831, when he served as Major under General Fry in the Blackhawk war, Abraham Lincoln being a Captain in the same regiment. On their return, Mr. Lincoln became for a time the pupil of Mr. Stuart, and ultimately law partner. From 1832 to 1835 he represented Sangamon county in the State Legislature, and in 1838 was elected to Congress on the Whig ticket, defeating Stephen A. Douglas. Elected again in 1840, his opponent being Judge Ralston. He was chosen State Senator in 1848, serving four years. He remained out of politics until 1862, when he entered the race for Congress, this time as a Democrat, and was elected. In 1865 he was chosen chairman of the executive committee of the Lincoln Monument Association. Mr. Stuart also held many other offices requiring administrative ability. He was one of the commissioners for erecting the new State house for Illinois; was President of the Springfield watch factory five years; Director of the Springfield Branch of the Illinois Central Railroad; and President of the Springfield and Northwestern Railroad Company.

The marriage of Mr. Stuart to Miss Mary V. Nash took place October 25, 1837. His wife was the daughter of General Frank Nash, of St. Louis county, Mo., formerly of Virginia, where she was born. Six children blessed this union, three sons and three daughters, all living except the oldest, a daughter.

William Daniel Jones.

Was born in Pittsylvania county, Va., July 10, 1808, his parents, Richard and Mary (Cocke), being natives of Virginia and North Carolina, respectively, who moved to Kentucky early in the present century. Mr. Jones became a minister of the gospel, and was pastor of the church at Hopkinsville for fifteen years, where he also taught school. In 1848 he established at Rogersville, E. Tenn., a large and flourishing Female Seminary, remaining at the head of it for seven years. From Rogersville Mr. Jones moved to Abington, Va., and built the Martha Washington College building, raising the money by his own efforts. His next effort was in Texas, intending to establish a school in Goliah, but the climate proving too trying, he moved to Kentucky. After a rest of a short season he went to Florence, Ala., having been appointed by the Synod of Memphis Vice President of Florence Seminary. In 1858 he bought the property of Holston Springs, Scott county, W. Va., and with Thos. B. Bailey opened a select school for young ladies. The degree of D. D. was conferred upon him by the College of New Jersey in 1856.

Mr. Jones was twice married. His first wife was Miss Mary N. Lacy, a native of Mecklenburg county, N. C., to whom he was married in 1827; she died in 1846. His second wife was Mrs. Mary A. Satterfield, of Princeton, Ky.

Mr. Jones died of dysentery July 22, 1859.

He was a frequent contributor to the pages of the Baltimore "Literary and Religious Magazine," and the "Protestant and Herald," of Louisville; author of a published sermon on the death of President Harrison. Married Maria R. Miles, a native of Frankfort. Mr. Price left six children, one of whom, Charles W. (C. C., '51), is a minister of the Presbyterian Church.

In 1847 Mr. Price attended the General Assembly in Richmond, Va., and while returning from there died of "heart disease" in the stage coach in which he was journeying.

JOSHUA FRY BELL.

Son of David and Martha (Fry) Bell; the father was a native of Newry county, Ireland; the mother of Albemarle county, Va.

Mr. Bell was born November 21, 1811, in Danville, and prepared for college by his grandfather, Joshua Fry, one of the most celebrated educators of his day. On leaving college he read law with Judge John Boyle, and after completing his course, spent several years in Europe. On his return he commenced the practice of his profession, locating in Danville, and soon acquired a large and lucrative patronage.

The profession of the law has always been connected very closely with politics in Kentucky, and in 1845 Mr. Bell became a candidate for the Lower House of Congress and was duly elected; in 1850 he was appointed Secretary of State by Gov. Crittenden; in 1859 he made a most spirited and exciting canvass in his contest with Beriah Magoffin for the Government of the State, and, although defeated, it was by a very largely reduced majority; was chosen by the Legislature in 1861 a commissioner to the "Peace Conference" at Washington; declined the nomination for Governor in 1863; from 1864–'67 was a member of the State Legislature. In politics Mr. Bell was an "original old-line Whig," and never ceased to defend the principles on which that party had been founded.

He married in October 1836 Miss Mary M. Helm, of Lincoln county. His death occurred August 10, 1870, at Danville. His widow died in March, 1874, leaving three daughters and one son.

Mr. Bell was well known as a successful lawyer and one of the brightest ornaments of the bar in Kentucky. As a public speaker he had few equals. "Some of the most beautiful thoughts and thrilling sentiments that were ever heard in the State were uttered by 'Bell of the silver tongue.'" "We may meet his equal in point of talent, but a better patriot or a truer gentleman we shall never have among us."

JAMES MILLS BUSH.

Son of Phillip and Eliza (Palmer) Bush, who came from Winchester, Va.,

to Frankfort, Ky., where their distinguished son was born May, 1808. On leaving college in 1828 he went to Louisville to receive instruction in medicine from Dr. Goldsmith. In 1831 he entered the medical department of Transylvania University, graduating in 1833. Making surgery a specialty, his marked ability attracted the attention of Dr. Dudley, himself a most skilful surgeon, who chose him to be demonstrator of anatomy, and in 1839 he was appointed to the Professorship of Anatomy and Surgery in the University.

"In 1850 Dr. Bush and some associate professors went to Louisville and assisted in the establishment of the Kentucky School of Medicine, now in existence, lecturing at Transylvania in the summer and at Louisville in the winter. They resigned the Louisville professorships after three years and returned to Transylvania, remaining there until just before the commencement of the war of 1861. During all this time Dr. Bush gave undivided attention to the practice of medicine and surgery, for his was a temperament so full of vital energy and dislike of repose that he found most rest in most work. During the cholera of 1831–32 in Louisville he devoted himself largely to the cause of suffering, and afterward in Lexington in 1833."—[Dr. L. B. Todd.

Dr. Bush married Miss James, of Chillicothe, Ohio, in whom he found a worthy companion. He died February 8, 1875, at his home in Lexington. The physicians of Lexington and vicinity, the City Council, the Northern Bank of Kentucky, of which he was a director, and the Pharmaceutical Association passed resolutions of respect to his memory.

"He certainly never did a mean thing, and I doubt whether an ignoble thought ever found lodgment in his mind. * * The public estimate of him as a man and physician was unusually high. Few physicians have ever enjoyed so large a share of personal and professional confidence."—[Dr. Lewis Rogers.

THOMAS COGGESHALL NICHOLS.

Son of Joshua and Hannah (Coggeshall) Nichols, natives of Newport, R. I., where he was born, April 9, 1807. During his childhood his family moved to Danville, where Mr. Nichols was educated. On leaving college he studied law and was admitted to the bar, expecting to make the law the business of his life, but upon the urgent solicitation of the Trustees of Centre College he was induced to become a Professor in the College, and so continued until 1846. After his removal to Illinois he became connected with McDonough College as Professor of Ancient Languages.

Prof. Nichols was a born student; his knowledge of books was great and thorough, and always at his command. He early became a member of the Presbyterian Church, and was a consistent and devoted Christian until his death. He was married at Harrodsburg, Ky., September 28, 1837, to Miss Fannie M. Pomeroy, a native of Salem, Mass., who died April 10, 1880, at Hamilton, Ills.

Son of Samuel E. and Marion (Briggs) McElroy. The former was a native of Campbell county, Va., and moved to Kentucky in 1789, settling near Lebanon; the latter was born near Bardstown.

Born January 23, 1809, near Lebanon, in the Seminary of which town he was prepared for college. Two years after graduating he was appointed by Dr. Proudfit (President of the Amer. Col. Soc.) to collect the freed negroes of Kentucky and Tennessee and to colonize them in Liberia. Having gathered one hundred and thirty, he sailed with them from New York June 9th on the ship Indiana. Arriving safely and settling his emigrants, he took passage home October 10th on the brig Ruth, and reached Philadelphia, December 7th. During that winter he made a number of speeches in behalf of the cause of colonization in which he had become warmly enlisted. These speeches are spoken of as models of eloquence. They were published largely in papers in the North and South, and aroused much interest on the subject.

Entered the Seminary at Princeton, 1836, remaining one year. Licensed to preach by the Presbytery of New Jersey, 1837. In the latter part of this year was settled as pastor at Winchester, Ky. His health becoming impaired in 1840, he was advised to go South, and having received an invitation from the First Presbyterian Church in New Orleans to supply that pulpit temporarily, he accepted. His health having improved, he returned to his charge in Kentucky. Shortly after, Dr. John Breckinridge, the pastor of the New Orleans Church, dying, he received a unanimous call to become that gentleman's successor, which he accepted In December, 1841, he left Kentucky for his new field of labor, but never reached it, dying January 5th of pneumonia at the house of Dr. J. G. Carson, near Natchez, Miss. He was never married.

"Ever a hard student and a man of deep and fervent piety."

WILLIAM R. PRESTON.

Very little could be learned of Mr. Preston. He studied theology at Princeton Theological Seminary, 1833–36, was licensed by Presbytery of Philadelphia, and ordained by Presbytery of Transylvania. Was with the church of Lancaster, 1839–40, and Georgetown, 1841–42.

In the autum of 1841 he concluded to seek a new residence in a growing section of the country, and traveled through Indiana and Illinois into Iowa, finally settling at Burlington, Iowa. Returned to Kentucky on a visit, 1843, and while there became acquainted with Miss Mary C. Burch, of Georgetown, which led to his marriage with her in December. He now decided to remain in his native State and opened a law office in Georgetown. Moved to Lexington, 1845, and formed a partnership with Judge S. R. Bullock. Went to Mexico as Major in the Third Regiment of Kentucky Volunteers, 1847, and served during the remainder of the war, when he returned to Lexington. Elected to Legislature from Fayette county in 1849. A public demonstration being decided on, to commend Mr. Clay for the compromise measures introduced by him into Congress, Mr. Breckinridge was selected by the consent of all parties to deliver the address. Elected to Congress as a Democrat, after a long and exciting contest, over Gen. Leslie Combes, the Whig nominee, in 1851. Re-elected over Gov. R. P. Letcher. The struggle for this victory was probably the most vigorous and bitter ever conducted in that district. While a member of Congress he was offered the position of Minister to Spain by Mr. Pierce, but declined it, and at the expiration of his term retired to private life. Having been appointed a delegate to the convention to select candidates for the Presidential contest of 1856, he was nominated for Vice-President and duly elected to the office, presiding over the Senate with dignity and impartiality. Received the nomination for the Presidency at the convention held in Baltimore June 28, 1860. Elected United States Senator from Kentucky in 1861.

In September Mr. Breckinridge went to Richmond, Va , to cast his furtunes with the Southern side of the impending conflict. Was appointed a Brigadier-General, and on November 16th assumed command of the afterward famous "First Kentucky Brigade," in command of which he continued until the spring of the succeeding year. March 2, 1862, he was placed in charge of a division by Gen. Johnston, and led this at the battle of Shiloh, April 6–7. Shortly after this battle he was regularly commissioned Major-General. During the summer his division was present at the defense of Vicksburg and Port Hudson. August 5th he commanded the Confederate troops at the battle of Baton Rouge. January 2 and 3, 1863, his command was constantly engaged during the battles at Stone River and around Murfreesboro. In May he went with his division to Mississippi, and during June was employed in attempts to relieve Vicksburg. September 19 and 20 his troops held the left wing of the Confederate army, and was hotly engaged in the bloody conflict at Chickamauga, October was at Lookout Mountain, and November 25 took a prominent part in the battle of Mission Ridge. In February, 1864, Gen. Breckinridge was assigned to a command in Virginia, and May 15 fought with Gen. Sigel at New Market. In July was with Gen. Early during his campaign into Maryland; was also at Monocacy, Cold Harbor and Bull's Gap.

March, 1865, appointed Secretary of War, and continued so until the close of the conflict; accompanied Mr. Davis into South Carolina; from there went to Florida, and, procuring an open boat, he made his way with a few friends to Cuba. Born April 17, 1820, in Lexington, Ky. His parents afterward removing to Woodford county, he was there prepared for college. In 1840 he graduated and studied law at Paducah, Ky., and afterward in New Haven, Conn. Entering on the practice of his profession in 1843, he practiced in Paris and Lexington, Ky., until 1845; since, in Galveston and in Austin, Texas.

Judge Alexander occupied successively the following positions: Commissioner of Deeds from Kentucky, Attorney-General of the State of Texas, United States Attorney for the Western District of Texas. He was appointed a Judge of the Supreme Court of Texas, but did not accept. He prepared the following works: "Texas Digest," published by T. & J. Johnson, Philadelphia. "Texas Pleading," same publisher. "Texas Conveyancing," published by James H. Naple, Austin, Texas.

Judge Alexander was an able lawyer and a ripe scholar, a forcible writer and an accomplished gentleman. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church. He was a Union man during the civil war, and while not regularly connected with the army, did staff work in the Federal army without pay, and went into Mexico on army business without accepting salary.

Died February 16, 1882, after a short illness, from brain fever. He leaves one brother, Mr. Alexander, of Paducah, Ky. He never married.

DANIEL BRECK.

Died February 17, 1878, at Delhi, La., of congestion of the stomach, after a few days illness.

Married (1) Lucretia Savage, daughter of the Rev. Dr. Savage, of Bedford, N. H., in 1853, who died 1858 at Natchez, leaving one daughter. (2) Sallie R. Ray, of Lebanon, Ky., in 1859, who died 1867, leaving three sons and one daughter. (3) Mrs. Martha Mason, of Delhi, La., in 1871, who with one son survived him.

Mr. Cleland's work in the ministry was chiefly with the churches at Lake Providence, La., Natchez, Miss., and Delhi, La. He united, at times, with his ministerial work that of teaching, and was engaged in both at the period of his death.

"A man of high character and well loved by his pastoral charges."

JAMES DICKEY ELDER.

Son of George Elder, a native of South Carolina, and Nancy (Henry) Elder, was born November 15, 1815, in Marion, Ky.

After leaving college Mr. Elder settled in Oldham county, Ky., as a farmer, having married a Miss Dodd, of that locality. Later he moved to Missouri, where he died in the fall of 1886.

PRESLEY UNDERWOOD EWING.

Son of Ephraim M. and Jane Pope (McIntyre) Ewing, the former of whom was a native of Davidson county, Tenn., and the latter of Hardin county, Ky.

Presley U. was born September 1, 1822, in Russellville, Ky., where he was prepared for college, which he entered in 1836. In 1840 he commenced the study of the law in Russellville, subsequently taking his degree of LL. B. at Transylvania. In 1845–46 he was a student in the Theological Seminary at Newton, Mass.

In 1848 Mr. Ewing entered the political arena as a member of the Kentucky Legislature, to which he was re-elected in 1849. He became a member of the Lower House of Congress in 1851, and was re-elected in 1853 without opposition.

Mr. Ewing while at the Law School in Lexington was stricken down by a serious spell of sickness, from which he finally recovered after his case had been pronounced hopeless by the celebrated Dr. Dudley. He regarded his life as saved by a special interposition of divine Providence, abandoned the law, and began preparation for the ministry of the gospel. He went to Germany, where his views and purposes again underwent a change, leading him to give up the study of theology. He became an extensive traveler in Europe, and acted as correspondent of several American periodicals. On his return home he resumed the study of law, and began its practice. He soon after engaged in politics with unbounded success.

Died of cholera, September 27, 1854, while on a visit to Mammoth Cave. He made a public speech in Bowling Green on the day before his death, which was considered the most brilliant of all his brilliant efforts.

"Combined in him were all the elements of the orator, set off with an exhaustless fund of humor, wit and ridicule. I regarded him as one of the most brilliant and promising young men Kentucky ever produced. Had he lived he would have shed immortal luster upon his Alma Mater."—[R. C. B.

JOHN D. MEEK.

After leaving college Mr. Meek entered the Theological Seminary at Princeton, graduating in 1843. A. M., 1844. No other facts could be learned, as his family could not be found.

JOHN HOLT PARKHILL.

Became assistant editor of the "New York Times" in 1861, and the same year was married to Nellie D. Evans, of Portland, Me., who survives him.

In 1866 he became Clerk of the United States District Court, Memphis, Tenn., a position which he held for two years. Was elected President of the Paducah and Memphis Railroad, holding the office from 1867–68. Became editor of the "St. Louis Times-Journal" in 1879 and of the "St. Louis Standard" in 1880.

Died, February 23, 1881, of pneumonia, at Hot Springs, Ark., which had been his home for five years previous. He left eight children, four by his second marriage and four by the last.

"Mr. Mitchell was a man of high moral principle and a gifted journalist. In the heat of political controversy he was severe at times, but there was no malignity in his nature. He was a man of noble and generous impulses, a profound scholar, and an untiring student and worker. He was familiar with all the great interests of the country, and was gifted with the rare faculty of presenting his views in a clear and attractive manner. His editorials will compare favorably with those of the best journalists of the country. He was a quiet, unpretentious man, never attempting display of any kind, and was always true and reliable."

MATTHEW BRANCH PRICE.

Son of Daniel B. and Elizabeth (Crockett) Price.

Born November 18, 1822, in Nicholasville, Ky. Prepared for college at his native place. Entered an advanced class in 1839. On leaving college he commenced his theological studies at the Western Theological Seminary. Was licensed to preach in 1841.

Married in Woodford county to Mrs. Florida Van Meter, 1851.

Died February 9, 1857, of consumption, in Nicholasville.

Mr. Price never assumed the pastoral charge of a church, but served at different times the churches at Frankfort, Clear Creek, Ky., and Independence, Mo., with great acceptance. He also had charge of a female school at Nicholasville, Ky.

His widow married Dr. Joseph B. Letcher, of Lexington, Ky. He left one daughter.

JOHN MATTHEW SHARP.

Son of Solomon P. and Eliza T. (Scott) Sharp.

Born June 18, 1823, in Frankfort, Ky. Mr. Sharp studied law but never practiced. He espoused the Southern side of the conflict between the States and served as an aide-de-camp on Gen. Buckner's staff.

Mr. Sharp was twice married; to Miss Lizzie Wilson, of Bowling Green, Ky., 1849, and to Miss Kate Collins, of Chicago.

"Lost in Gulf of Mexico about May 26, 1863."

RICHARD C. ("X.") WHITE.

Son of Clairborne and Susan White.

Born in Manchester, Clay county, Ky., November 29, 1821. On graduating he located in Richmond, where as a lawyer and banker he spent a long and useful life, dying April 28, 1890. On account of trouble about his mail, Mr. White substituted X for C in his name.

Mr. White was married to Miss Pattie A. Sneed, of Woodford county, in 1844, who survives her husband.

Says the Richmond Register: "Thus we have more than sixty-eight years of life and every duty met—as citizen, husband, son and father his record is exemplary. He was honest. He was firm in his convictions and brave in asserting them. He was kind, gentle and always courteous. He was not only highly esteemed for his many noble qualities, but hundreds who knew him intimately loved him as few men are loved, and the universal expressions of regret are not empty, formal words of praise, but the spontaneous outbursts of sympathetic and grieved hearts."

HENRY C. WOOD.

Son of George T. and Elizabeth (Helm) Wood. The father was a resident of Munfordville, Ky., having emigrated from Albemarle county, Va. The mother was a native of Hart county, Ky.

Born November 27, 1821, at Munfordville. He was prepared for college in the schools of his native village. After graduating he pursued the study of the law at Munfordville, and at Greensburg with R. A. Buckner, and commenced the practice of his profession in his native village. He served the county of Hart several years as Attorney.

Married at Greensburg, 1840, Miss Elizabeth Barret.

Represented his county in the State Legislature in 1847. He afterward moved to Louisville, Ky. Was elected Judge of the Court of Appeals of Kentucky in 1858.

Died February 11, 1861, at Munfordville, while on a visit to the home of his parents. His widow, two sons and a daughter are now living in Louisville, Ky.

"Judge Wood had the very highest appreciation of the duties and responsibilities of a lawyer, a legal adviser and a judge. He fully appreciated the force of the old maxim that 'The seat of justice is in the Throne of God.' On this sentiment were based the ruling and guiding principles of his professional career, whether as a lawyer, an advocate or a judge. He loved and honored his profession with an ardor and intensity that colder and more sordid natures could not appreciate. With him a sense of duty ever overrode the sense of personal advantage or personal preferment."

JOHN R. ALEXANDER.

Son of William and Jane (Stamps) Alexander.

Born in Bourbon county, Ky. Mr. Alexander purposed studying for the ministry, but died of typhoid fever before he could enter upon his theological course.

RICHARD HENRY COLLINS.

The subject of this notice was the son of Judge Lewis Collins, and was born May 4, 1824. His preliminary education was received at Maysville Seminary, and in 1840 he entered Centre College.

After graduating he studied law at Transylvania Law School, and began the practice of his profession at Maysville in 1845. During two periods, from 1845 to 1850 and from 1853 to 1857, he edited the "Maysville Eagle" in addition to his legal labors. From 1862 to 1871 he resided in Covington and practiced law in Cincinnati, O. In 1861 he started the "Danville Review" and published it several years.

Mr. Collins' chief literary work was his history of Kentucky, issued in two octavo volumes. It was founded upon a smaller work published by his father in 1847, his own appearing in 1874. It was a work containing a large amount of information, and is a monument of laborious research.

He died January 1, 1888, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. S. L. Craig, in Maryville, Mo.

ANDREW JACKSON DUNLAP.

LOWMAN PRINCE HAWES.

Son of Lowman L. and Charlotte (Brown) Hawes. The former was a native of New York State, and afterward removed to Maysville, Ky., where he practiced law and engaged in merchandising. His mother was a native of Maysville.

Born October 5, 1825. He was prepared for college at Maysville Seminary. Entered college in the middle of the Sophomore year, graduating with the highest honors of his class. He turned his attention to law for two years, teaching at the same time, but reviewing the question of duty, abandoned it for the ministry, and entered the Theological Seminary at Allegheny, where he graduated in 1846, when he was licensed to preach by the Allegheny Presbytery. After supplying the Second Church of Baltimore for six months, a church at Richmond, Ky., and Fort Wayne, Ind., he finally settled in Concord, Pa.

Married Mary J. McGahan, of Pittsburg, Pa., a niece of Rev. Alexander T. McGill, of Princeton Theological Seminary, in 1847. He had four daughters and one son, who is now in the Presbyterian ministry.

In 1850 he became pastor of the church at Huntingdon, Pa. His health becoming seriously impaired, he spent eight months in foreign travel, visiting the principal cities of Europe. He returned very much benefited in health, and was appointed Professor of Languages in Carroll College, Waukesha, Wis., also supplying the Presbyterian Church there. In 1857 he accepted a call to the First Presbyterian Church in Madison Ind., where he labored until his death.

Died February 11, 1861, leaving a widow, who still survives.

A Princeton professor writes thus in reference to him: "Had he possessed a strong body and a fine voice, the rich thought, the classic beauty of his style, the impassioned glow of his emotions, would have made him a famous preacher, hardly surpassed by any of his age."

He died in peace and triumph, his last words being, "All is bright."

JOSEPH HELM.

Son of Thomas and Mary (Montgomery) Helm, both of Lincoln county, Ky.

Born April 26, 1822, in Lincoln county. Preparatory course taken in the lower department of Centre College. Entered college in 1838, remaining four years. Son of James Hervy and Sarah Everett (Dedman) Woods, the former being a native of Mercer county and the latter of Woodford county, Ky.

Born November 26, 1823, at Harrodsburg, Ky., from which place he entered college, having received his preparatory training at Bacon College, Harrodsburg. Graduated and began preparation for the ministry of the Presbyterian Church, attending the Princeton Theological Seminary in 1844–47. He immediately entered on the active work of the ministry, preaching in Green and Taylor counties chiefly. During the greater part of his subsequent life he united the professions of preaching and teaching.

Married in June, 1849, Sarah C. Lisle, of Green county. There were five children by this marriage.

Married in June, 1865, Eliza J. Logan, of Shelby county, Ky. There was one child by this marriage, which died in infancy.

Died in April, 1867, in Taylor county, after a brief illness, of tubercular disease.

Mr. Woods was a man of great energy, ardent piety and fine education. He accomplished more, perhaps, as a devoted Christian educator than as a preacher, on account of an extreme diffidence in the pulpit. There are many men and women now living in Kentucky who were once his pupils, and on whose characters he made an indelible Christian impress. Mr. Woods died with an assured faith in the Redeemer. Among his last words were: "My trust in a covenant-keeping God is all my hope. His promises are both sure and steadfast."

WILLIAM ATWOOD.

Son of Col. Peter B. Atwood, of Greensburg, Ky., a native of Culpeper county, Va., and Mary K. (Robards) Atwood, a native of Mercer county, Ky.

Graham, class of 1837. With the exception of a brief period, when he attended Bishop Smith's school near Louisville, his education was entirely received at Centre College. He studied law in the office of Judge Robertson at Lexington, and on completing the law course in Transylvania University he commenced practice in Lexington, but after a few years moved to Louisville.

January 1, 1873, died of softening of the brain at the residence of his sister, Mrs. McClintock, at Chillicothe, O. He never married.

"Mr. Atwood was a man of pure and upright character and died universally lamented. In special departments of the law he had reached a high degree of execellence, and in these his opinions always had great weight."

ROBERT DOUGLAS BAKER.

Son of Robert and Frances (Redd) Baker, both natives of Virginia.

Born November 16, 1823, at Cadiz, Trigg county, Ky. Entered the Freshman Class, having been prepared at Hopkinsville, Ky.

United with the Baptist Church at Cadiz in 1855, of which he afterward became a deacon. He remained at Cadiz more than twenty years, where he was an enterprising and prosperous merchant. In 1871 he removed to Louisville and united with the Broadway Baptist Church.

Died March 9, 1881, at Louisville.

"Mr. Baker was a quiet, unobtrusive, yet faithful, conscientious and intelligent disciple of Christ. His integrity in all business affairs was unspotted. As Secretary of the Orphans' Home Directory he cheerfully gave his time and influence to carry out its benevolent purposes. For many months he suffered greatly from a painful and wasting sickness, which he endured with patience. He lived to see five of his children baptized into the fellowship of the Church."—[J. L. B.

He moved to Memphis, Tenn., and thence to Baton Rouge, La. In 1863 he came through the lines of the contending armies to die in his native place. His death occurred of consumption November 15, 1863.

Dr. Fleece was married to Miss Fannie Dickerson in Lebanon, Ky., November 29, 1853. His widow died in 1875.

JOSEPH W. FORE.

Entered college from Shelby county, and after living a somewhat checkered life, died in St. Louis, Mo., in the seventies, under distressing circumstances.

EDWARD HOLLISTER GREEN.

Son of James W. and Elizabeth (Bass) Green. Mr. Green's father was from Newbern, N. C., his mother from Waynesboro, N. C.

Born May 14, 1827, in Madison county, Ala. Prepared for college at Mt. Carmel, Tipton county, Tenn. Entered in advance, and graduated with the class of 1848. Soon after he commenced to study for the ministry under the charge of Rev. D. H. Cummins. On completing his preparation he preached for the Portersville Church, Tennessee, and, on being called to the Green Hill Church, Texas, he accepted.

Married Miss Catherine Hall, of Tipton county, Tenn., 1850. Mr. Green and wife died about the same time, during the war, and both of the same disease, consumption, leaving two sons and two daughters.

"During Mr. Green's short ministry he built up two flourishing churches, and was a most earnest and consecrated Christian."

JAMES S. HALL.

Entered college from Covington, Tenn. On the breaking out of the civil war he became a Captain in a Tennessee regiment, C. S. A., and was killed in service.

WILLIAM CUNNINGHAM JACKSON.

Son of Archibald and Anna (Torrence) Jackson, the former a native of Ireland, the latter of Kentucky.

Born December 21, 1828, near Cedarville, Greene county, O. Preparatory studies pursued in Xenia, to which place his parents had moved after his birth. Entered Miami University, Oxford, in 1845, and in 1847 changed to Centre College, and remained to close of Senior year.

Mr. Jackson at first was inclined to the law as a profession, but before taking any decisive steps the claims of the Christian ministry were brought to his notice in such a way that he determined to devote his life to the service of Christ. Entered the Associate Theological Seminary at Cannonsburg, Pa., 1850. Licensed in 1852, and December, 1853, took charge of the U. P. Church of Greenville, Pa. Was ordained and installed February 4, 1854, as pastor. Here he remained seven and a half years laboring acceptably, and, at the close of his labors, having the pleasure of knowing that besides the increased membership of his own church, two other congregations had sprung up under his care.

In 1861 the General Assembly, deeming it advisable to send some one to Chicago, Ill., called on Mr. Jackson, who finally consented. During the time he remained the church increased from twenty-five members to one hundred and twenty-five, and two additional congregations were formed, largely from persons sent out from his church. In addition to this work he labored among the prisoners at Camp Douglas as spiritual adviser. In this he took great pleasure, as among them were many he had known in his student days.

In 1868 he went to the Fourth U. P. Church in Philadelphia. This church was at the time in a very feeble condition and the house of worship unfit for the purpose of building up a congregation. He preached his first sermon on the first Sabbath of February, and from that time the welfare of the church was assured. Up to the time he was laid aside, about five hundred were added to the church, and a new and commodious building finished in November, 1877.

Died December 22, 1878.

Married (1) Miss Matilda Grace Magoffin, of Mercer, Pa., who died February, 1864; (2) Miss Mary Stewart, of Philadelphia, who survives him. He left two daughters, born while he was living in Chicago.

Mr. Jackson was often called upon to lecture before lyceums and societies; was a frequent contributor to the religious press, and was editor for some time of the "Youth's Evangelist."

"In his pastoral and public character Mr. Jackson was also marked. In the kindness of his heart and manner the poor, the tempted and the troubled felt always drawn to him, so that he literally bore the burden of many. * * * In his clear and practical views of things he was a useful adviser, a good member of all church courts and of the Board of Foreign Missions and Ministerial Relief, to which he severally belonged.'—[D.

WILLIAM JOEL LYLE.

Son of John R. and Sarah M. (Irvin) Lyle.

Born December 5, 1841, in Fayette county, Ky. Mr. Lyle was a farmer for many years. In 1887 he became connected with the "Ketucky Advocate" in Danville, and in August, 1888, in connection with S. G. Boyle, became interested in the "Kentucky Stock Farm" at Lexington.

He was married to Miss Ellen J. Lyle, of Bourbon county, October 10, 1867.

Died October 3, 1889, at Danville, of typhoid fever.

"His most marked traits were his integrity and his unselfishness, in great things or in small, as exhibited in his intercourse with others and in his fidelity to the interests to which he devoted himself. He had no vices, and no enemies that ought not to have been his friends. We never knew a purer character, nor mourned the loss of a truer, nobler man."—Kentucky Stock Farm.

FRANCIS FONTAINE MAURY.

Son of Matthew Fontaine and Eliza (Chipman) Maury. His father was an Episcopal clergyman, who came to Kentucky from Albemarle county, Va. His mother was a native of Middlebury, Vt. Through his father he was a lineal descendant of the noble Huguenot family De la Fontaine. Among his ancestry are numbered many distinguished persons. The late M. F. Maury, of the U. S. Navy, eminent for his discoveries in the physical geography of the sea, was a near relative.

Born August 9, 1840, at Danville, Ky., and received his early training at the preparatory department of Centre College. On graduating he entered the Medical Department of the Ueiversity of Virginia, where he spent one term. Matriculated in September, 1861, at Jefferson Medical College, where he graduated March 8, 1862. He was immediately elected Resident Physician in the Philadelphia Hospital, where he remained one year. Commissioned, April 1, 1863, Acting Assistant Surgeon United States Army, and was assigned to duty at the South Street General Hospital, where he served till April 15, 1865. In 1863 he was Clinical Assistant to Prof. Gross, and in 1864 became the chief of the surgical clinic in the Jefferson Medical College, a position which he held for three years. In October, 1865, he was appointed accoucheur to the Philadelphia Hospital, and in April, 1866, lecturer on venereal and cutaneous diseases in the summer course of Jefferson Medical College. In October, 1866, he was appointed one of the surgeons to the Philadelphia Hospital, although only twenty-six years old. It was here that he laid the foundation of his reputation as an accomplished surgeon and teacher.

Dr. Maury was one of the early members of the American Dermatological Association, and was elected a member of the Pathological Society of Philadelphia in 1866; of the Academy of Natural Sciences in 1868, and of the Philadelphia County Medical Society in 1877. On the establishment of the Iefferson Medical College Hospital in 1877 he was appointed one of its surgeons.

Married Katherine Ingersoll, of Philadelphia, 1868, who died April 1, 1873.

Died June 4, 1879, of acute Bright's disease. He was seized with a chill at the grave of his wife, which was the commencement of an illness from which he never recovered.

As a surgeon Dr. Maury was as cool and dexterous in execution as he was sound in judgment. He has performed all the important operations of surgery. One rare operation he performed for the first time in this country; another difficult operation by him is the only one of the kind on record. Dr. Maury was singularly averse to writing, so that his contributions to medical literature were fragmentary. In conjunction with Dr. Duhring he edited two volumes of the "Photographic Review of Medicine and Surgery." His lectures in the summer course of the Jefferson Medical College and at the Philadelphia Hospital were deservedly popular, and never failed to attract large and attentive audiences.

Dr. Maury was not only an excellent surgeon, but a most successful general practioner of medicine. For several years before his death he enjoyed a lucrative practice. By his friends (and their name was legion) he was greatly admired, and he was beloved and trusted by his patients. To his sympathetic and genial manners, which were almost magnetic, was due, in a great measure, the wonderful influence he exerted over his fellow-men.—[Memoir by S. W. Gross, M. D.

EZRA MCCALL.

When Mr. McCall entered college his parents were residents of Danville, Ky., but moved to Mt. Vernon. He died in 1862. No particulars of his life could be obtained from his relatives.

ROBERT MILLER.

HENRY CLAY PALMER.

Son of Dr. R. C. and Emily (Hardin) Palmer.

Born August 14, 1840, in Springfield, Ky. Prepared for college at Covington Institute, Springfield. On leaving college he proposed to study the law, but the civil war soon breaking out, he warmly espoused the Federal side, and having raised a company, joined the Fifth Kentucky Cavalry as Captain of Company A. The hardship of military life soon told on a constitution naturally delicate, and in March, 1862, he was compelled to leave his command.

Died February 11, 1863, of consumption, at his father's residence in Springfield, never having married.

"During his sickness no murmur ever escaped his lips, and when the hour for his departure had come, he bade farewell to the weeping family and friends around him with a Christian resignation that amounted to true heroism. With all his mental faculties in full and vigorous exercise, with a clear, unwavering faith, he said: 'Thank God I am ready, and more than ready to go.'"—[M. S.

CYRUS BOYS TRIMBLE.

Son of John Allen and Lavinia V. (Boys) Trimble, the father being a native of Woodford county, Ky., the mother of Staunton, Va.

Born March 12, 1841, in Lincoln county, Ky. Preparatory studies pursued at Stanford Seminary, Stanford. Entered college in 1860, and on graduating Mr. Alcorn took the Southern side of the then existing conflict, and joined Col. Grigsby's regiment, the Eighth Kentucky Cavalry. Sharing in Gen. Morgan's raid into Ohio, he was captured and taken to "Camp Douglas." Escaping after a few weeks, he made his way to Kentucky and taught school in Madison county, waiting an opportunity to pass into the Southern lines. His purpose being suspected, he fled across the Ohio River, and started for San Francisco with the intention of returning South by water and running the blockade. Having reached Austin, Nevada, he was taken with typhoid fever and died during the winter of 1863. He was unmarried.

SAMUEL FARRAND ALLEN.

Son of Marcus and Lucia (Fabrigue) Allen.

Born March 17, 1838, in Corydon, Ind. Mr. Allen took a course in theology, 1862–65, in the Seminary at Danville. In 1865 he went to the Northwest to preach the gospel, but his health declining, he returned home, and lingering a few months, died in the winter of 1866–7. Unmarried.

LEWIS GREEN CRAIG.

Son of William and Martha E. (Green) Craig, the former a native of Virginia, the latter of Danville Ky.

Born in 1842 in Danville, and received his preparatory education at the Preparatory of Centre College. Graduated in 1862 and began the study of law, receiving his degree of LL. B. from the University of Louisville. He served in the civil war on the Federal side as aid to Gen. Jackson at the battle of Perryville.

Died July 23, 1868. He was never married.

Alexander Scott McGrorty, Jr.

Son of Alexander S. and Rosa B. (Yeiser) McGrorty. The father was born in Ireland, the mother in Danville, Ky.

Born January 9, 1852, in Danville. Prepared at the preparatory department of Centre College, and entered in 1869 the Freshman Class. Went to Emmettsburg, Iowa, 1874, to engage in banking. Was chosen Superintendent of Public Instruction of Palo Alto county, which office he held until declining health compelled him to resign.

Married November 7, 1878, Maggie Halsey, of Harrodsburg, Ky., and on the 18th he died of consumption at his father's residence in Danville.

William McDowell McClure.

Mr. McClure was the son of Moses McClure, of Dry Ridge, Ky., at whose home he died May 19, 1887.

He entered the Sophomore Class in 1872, and through his college course was faithful in the discharge of all the duties assigned him. "William M. McClure was a young man of much promise, but his earthly prospects were early blighted by the insidious disease to which he finally succumbed."

Joshua Bell Reed.

Son of John Prall Reed, of Lexington, Ky., and Julia Ann (Harrison) Reed, of Marion county, Ky.

Born July 16, 1855, at Danville, Ky., and was prepared for college in his native place and in Louisville. He chose the legal profession, and graduated in law at Vanderbilt University. He was one of nine out of a class of forty who were permitted to graduate with the degree of B. L.

Died November 23, 1879, in Denver, Col., of typhoid fever, after an illness of one week.

Mr. Reed was a young man of high integrity and fine promise. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

JOSEPH SMITH MOORE.

Son of William I. Moore, a native of Jefferson, Pa., and Elizabeth C. (Long) Moore, of Frankfort, Ky.

Joseph S. Moore was born June 16, 1855, in Danville, Ky., and attended the preparatory school of the college. On graduating he studied law, and was admitted to the bar in 1879. In 1880 he went to Jackson, Cal., but returned in 1881, and was connected with the construction corps of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad in 1881, and with that of the "Nickel Plate" in 1883–4. He went to Oregon in 1885, but failing health compelled him to return. He now took to journalism as a profession, and pursued it diligently until a few days before his death. Although Mr. Moore had been connected with various papers as correspondent and local editor, his main work was on the "Kentucky Advocate."

In journalism he had found his true vocation; as a writer he was lucid, terse and elegant; well informed on all topics of popular interest, his pen gave to them a charm peculiarly his own; at one time pathetic, at another humorous; now vigorous, exhortive and warning, now "the touching minor in some human strain"; and whatever bore the signature of "Laertes" was worth reading.

He died October 15, 1890, of consumption, at the home of his parents in Danville, having never married.

ANDREW BONNER SEMPLE.

Son of Alexander B. and E. H. (Price) Semple, natives of Louisville, Ky.

He died January 15, 1880.

1877.

ROBERT DISHER CHENAULT.

Son of Josiah P. and Narcissa (Oldham) Chenault.

Born September 24, 1855. During the year 1875–76 Mr. Chenault suspended his studies to become an instructor in the college. On graduating he studied law, taking his degree from the Law School of the University of Virginia in 1879.

He died soon after of typhoid fever.

WALTER LAURIE HAYS.

Son of Rev. John Smith Hays, D. D., who was born near Cannonsburg, Pa., and Fannie (Dirbney) Hays, a native of Londonderry, N. H.

Born January 29, 1855, at Charlestown, Clark county, Ind., and was prepared for college at Louisville High School. On graduating he began his preparation for the ministry of the gospel by entering the Danville Theological Seminary, but he was destined not to see the realization of his plans.

Died April 20, 1879, at Danville, of consumption, the day on which his classmates were licensed to preach the gospel.

Mr Hays was a young man of many amiable and promising qualities, and, the only son, was the pride and hope of his family.

SAMUEL LEWIS CURRY.

Son of James A. and Elizabeth P. (Lewis) Curry, of Harrodsburg, Ky., where Samuel was born, April 9, 185–.

Mr. Curry chose a mercantile life; was a member of the firm of J. A. Curry & Sons, Druggists, Danville, and of Curry & Dearing, Books and Stationery, Louisville.

On the seventh day of July, 1886, with a party of friends, he entered a pond near Lexington, Ky., for a swim, and suddenly sank from sight. His death probably preceded the sinking.

Unmarried. A member of the Presbyterian Church.

JOHN ROBERT JAMES.

Rev. J. R. James was born near Danville, Ky., December 3, 1858, his father, Joseph M. James, having moved to Boyle county from Pulaski county.

After leaving college Mr. James went to Coffeyville, Kansas, commenced the study of law, and entered eagerly into the political contests in his adopted State.

Feeling that this life was morally bad in its influence on those with whom he came in contact, and its reaction evil to himself, he came to Kentucky, entered the Southern Baptist Seminary at Louisville, and on completing his theological course, commenced his labors as a minister of the gospel at Lancaster. His next charge was at Somerset. In November, 1887, he was called to Paris, and had barely entered on his work when death came.

While riding in his buggy from Paris to Millersburg his horse took fright and ran off. Mr. James jumped from the vehicle, and his head struck the pike as he fell. He was taken up unconscious, and so remained until his death, November 23, 1887.

He was married in 1883 to Miss Annie L. Wearin, of Kirksville, Ky.

HENRY PALMER DUDLEY.

Entered college from Flemingsburg, Ky. On graduating he went to Larned, Kansas, to which place his father had moved, and died soon after of consumption.

JACOB GUEST OWSLEY.

Son of Ebsworth and Mary R. (Guest) Owsley.

Born in Crab Orchard, Ky., in 1858. Mr. Owsley became a farmer.

Died August, 1882, at Stanford, Ky., of consumption. He was a member of the Christian Church.

GEORGE JOHNSON ALLEN.

Son of Rev. James L. and Sarah (McCaw) Allen.

Born December 13, 1861, in Lafayette county, Mo. Mr. Allen became a commission merchant in Chicago, Ills., and continued there until the latter part of 1888, when failing health compelled him to withdraw from business, and he returned to Danville, the home of his father.

He went to New Mexico, hoping for improvement from the climate, and died at New Rivers, New Mexico, February 20, 1889.
